Program overview

The WAARC Polyphagous Shot-hole Borer Fusarium Dieback Research Program is an initiative of the State Government-backed WA Agricultural Research Collaboration (WAARC), which aims to bolster the existing national eradication response through targeted research and development to help future-proof the State's agriculture and food sector.

The objective of the program is to assist the development and selection of collaborative research projects aimed at bolstering the State's PSHB-FD eradication response and to fund research that aligns with the priorities of WAARC and the WA agriculture sector.

Expression of Interest

Before completing this expression of interest form, you should have read the WAARC PSHB-FD Research Program guidelines here

Applications for the WAARC PSHB-FD Research Program will follow a two-stage application process. Stage One will consist of this Expression of Interest (EOI) process where applicants can provide high-level information regarding their proposed project. Only selected successful EOI applicants will be invited to submit a full grant proposal in Stage Two.

Please read each section and complete each question, as requested. It is recommended that you allow yourself enough time to review the application and submit it well before the due date. The closing date for the WAARC PSHB-FD Research Program is Wednesday, 18 December 2024, 5:00 pm AWST. Incomplete applications and/or applications received after the closing date will not be considered.

This form contains mandatory fields. You will be alerted if you save the form without completing the required sections.

Please note, supporting documents are supplementary to your application. Please ensure you answer all the questions and provide relevant details where required.

Privacy Statement

Information provided by applicants or collected by the WA Agricultural Research Collaboration (WAARC) in relation to an applicant or their application may be used in the administration of this Grants Program and in the assessment of this application. Clarification of other funding sources for your project as stated in your application and project budget may be sought from the relevant funding bodies. Any information provided (personal, financial or otherwise) will be solely used for the purpose of this Grants Program.
